New Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs)

Part of the conference is the Satellite Meeting: "Three Decades of Algerian-German Cooperation in Optics and Electronics".

Conference scope and topics

The 1st Algerian-German International Conference on New Technologies and their Impact on Society (AGICNT) is to be held at the University Ferhat Abbas - Sétif (Algeria) in May 2008. The AGICNT conference organizers and committee are working to provide an exciting and engaging forum for you to explore, understand and develop your interest and involvement in new technologies and their impact on society. All abstract submissions undergo peer-review.

We invite contributions from members of both the engineering sciences and the social sciences with experience of exploring, developing, applying and evaluating new technologies and/or their impact on society. The conference aims to foster inter-disciplinary discussions on new technologies and their implications.

The conference is organized by the University Ferhat Abbas - Sétif (Algeria) together with the University of Ilmenau (Germany). Both universities look back on a history of more than 25 years of intercultural cooperation in the field of new technology teaching and research. As an Algerian-German conference AGICNT aims to promote inter-cultural exchange on new technologies and their impact on more or less developed countries.
